Dedication

IT is with pleasure that we take this opportunity to express our appreciation to Sprague W. Drenan for his valuable and untiring guidance and help, by dedicating this yearbook to him.

Students who have been fortunate enough to have studied under Mr. Drenan know the feeling of appreciation which we are trying to express; and perhaps this fact is reward enough for a good teacher and a fine man.

EDITORIAL

As this Kronicle Yearbook of 1935 comes from the press, we come to the end of another school year. For some of us, it marks the beginning of a new career—teaching. For the undergraduates, it marks the completion of another step in the realization of their ambitions.

In no sense can this Yearbook be a closed book. We are at the beginning of an educational career which we can never quite complete. For one, two, three, or four years we have lived here at Keene Normal School. The pages of this book serve as a reminder of those triumphs and failures we have experienced. Nothing can ever rob us of those cherished memories—the hikes, the athletic games, the pranks, the parties, the tests, and the term papers.

In life, as in school, we will have our daily responsibilities. Some we will shirk, but most of them we will carry successfully to fulfillment. Our associations here at school, with instructors, students, and others, will help us to see our duties and privileges in a clearer, saner, more thoughtful light. Let us forget our failures and strive continually for successes.

Some of our daily tasks may seem irksome, but let us remember that in life, as in school:

"..... Yesterday is but a Dream
And Tomorrow is only a Vision;
But Today well lived
Makes every Yesterday a Dream of Happiness,
And every Tomorrow a Vision of Hope."

FOG

(Apologies to Carl Sandburg)

The fog comes on little cat feet—
about the time of Examinations—
It sits looking over desk and chair—
on silent haunches;
Then moves on.
And sometimes it stays.

Senior President's Message

As we near the end of one road, and are prepared to enter upon another, let us stop and look back over the paths that have been ours. For all of us there are many happy memories. Few of us realized what lay before us when we set out on this road which has too quickly ended. We have gone by signposts—some important—some unimportant, but all have pointed to this termination.

Now we must look to the future. As we go forth, each having chosen the road which he is to follow, may we never forget the traditions, standards, and friendships of our Alma Mater. There will be many crossroads and new signposts and as we arrive and prepare to pass them, let us be sure that our decisions be those that will reflect honor and credit to the school that has so well prepared us to go on this journey. Classmates, may your paths lead to success, and may your ideals founded during your years here be attained.

With you, undergraduates, may I leave these admonitions. You are starting on your roads and some of you have already passed several signposts. You are preparing to go by the rest, but before you go on, stop and be sure that the foundation that you have laid is firm, and will stand the increase of weight which you are going to place upon it year by year. Only by our own choice and diligent work can you determine the road over which you will travel.

—Robert H. Domina

SNOW

Snow, you "flurrious" thing,
You hurrious, scurrious thing,
Possessor of so many moods;
Predecessor of interludes;
You dance! You whirl! You lurch!
You camouflage the ash as birch.
You thunder and you storm,
You are so cold—yet so warm—
Sometimes winged messengers you seem,
Sometimes diamond dusts that gleam.
We welcome you! We tire of you—
Yet come! Live—Die anew,
Trail autumn's glory! Your calmness bring!
Then give way to a new generation—Spring!

KALEIDOSCOPE IN RED AND BLACK

RED—crimson drops of blood on thick black velvet—
—scarlet flowers against white stones in a cool green cemetery—
—embroidery on a mandarin coat shadowing an unknown soul—
—gay sashes on lissome gypsy forms—swaying—

BLACK—night in a forest 'mid moaning trees and sounds of hidden life—
—a prison cell—with faint gray bars illumined on the floor—
—deserted house, boarded up—forgotten desolate—
—inky depths of placid waters—shimmering—luring—treacherous—

Women's Athletics

The Women's Athletic Association is one of the foremost campus organizations. Every girl student has an equal opportunity to become a member by winning one hundred points for participation in the many, varied sports by the school, and by achieving a scholastic average of 80%.

At the beginning of the Freshman Year, each girl is placed on either the Red or White Team, and she remains a supporter of this group throughout the course.

Awards of emblems, pins, and blazers are presented each year to those filling the necessary requirements. Fall and Spring Sports Days are sponsored biennially, terminating the various seasonal sport tourneys. These include baseball, archery, hockey, bowling, badminton, baseball, volleyball, and swimming. The winners of each event are presented with numerous monograms and all varsity players receive letters. Our slogan is: "A sport for every girl, and every girl in a sport."

The varsity basketball squad owes its striking success to Miss Marjory Bateman, who coached them faithfully throughout the season, and who was largely responsible for their two close victories over Plymouth, our worthy rivals.

Another important person in the field of girl's athletics this year has been Miss Miriam Clark, who has most efficiently filled the position of Assistant Physical Education Director.

Men's Sports Summary 1934—1935

The usual fall sports program of intramural games was carried out in 1934, consisting of speed ball, tennis, horseback riding, cross country, hiking, swimming and badminton. The cross country team held two meets with Gorham Normal school, one in Keene and one at Gorham, Me. Gorham won here, while the local boys reversed the score at Gorham. Robert Edmonds, '37, Loudon, led the Keene runners in both meets.

During the fall, seven men earned their senior life saving certificates.

Coach Caldwell's basketball team had an unusually successful season playing with other teacher training institutions, and the Keene "Y" Club. Trips were taken to schools in Maine, Vermont and Massachusetts. For the first time Plymouth was represented by a team of men, and two games were played with this group, both victories for Keene.

The team closed its season with ten victories and five defeats. The locals scored 565 points against 482 by opponents. Only two of the regular players will be lost by graduation.

At the time of going to press the spring program had gotten under way, with large groups engaged in tennis, baseball and track. The interest in tennis has been increased due to the hard surfaced courts.

The athletic season of 1934-1935 deserves to be recorded in the history of the school as one of the most successful. Practically every man in school was engaged in one or more activities during the season.
